C. Precautions for Admission Qualifications

- 1) As a non-Korean prospective international applicant with both parents as foreigners must meet all of the following eligibility criteria:
 - The prospective applicant and his/her both parents are recognized as foreigners only if the applying student and both parents hold foreign citizenship before the beginning of the study in Republic of Korea.
 - If a prospective applicant and his/her both parents have changed (lost /rejected) nationality, the applying student must submit a Certificate of Loss of Nationality.
 - If a parent is the only financial provider due to divorce, death, or other reasons, either the applicant's mother's or father's nationality shall only be applied; however, the reason must be identified/verified by the government-issued document.
 - A prospective applicant with multiple nationalities that include Korean nationality is not recognized as a foreigner.
 - Individuals who have acquired foreigner status retroactively due to a change in nationality are not eligible for admission.
- 2) The status of one's nationality standard is in accordance with the application date.
- 3) English track refers to a curriculum in which students can graduate by taking major and liberal arts courses in English, and interview screening is also conducted in English.
- 4) According to the educational laws and regulations of the relevant country, only regular school courses that meet specified academic standards are recognized. Education programs for language study purposes, university preparatory courses, lifelong education courses, adult education courses, correspondence education courses, online education courses, overseas equivalency exams (such as the GED in the United States and Canada, the self-taught exam in China), and homeschooling are not eligible for admission.
- 5) The list of the countries that uses English as its first language or uses English as a legal official language is limited to the ones that only specifies the countries information at the homepage of Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Republic of Korea.
- 6) At the time of application, a prospective applicant shall submit his/her language proficiency test certification within its validity date.
